

Bio for Dr. Steven Ronik

Dr. Steven Ronik is currently the Chief Executive Officer for Henderson Behavioral Health. Henderson is a nationally recognized behavioral health system, known for its innovative and leading evidence-based clinical services. Prior to his current role, Dr. Ronik held several leadership positions at Zucker/Hillside Hospital at Northwell Health, formerly known as the Northshore/LIJ Healthcare System in New York City.

Dr. Ronik has served as the Chairperson of the Florida Council for Community Mental Health—the leading trade association for behavioral healthcare organizations in Florida. He has been recognized for his leadership with numerous awards, including the Ultimate CEO Award from the South Florida Business Journal, the EPIC Award from the Mental Health Association of Southeast Florida, Advocate of the Year Award from Broward County, and the Time Award from the National Alliance on Mental Illness. Dr. Ronik is a board member for the National Council for Behavioral Health and Mental Health Corporations of America.

Dr. Ronik currently serves as adjunct professor for Nova Southeastern University. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree with highest honors, from the State University College of New York at Oneonta, an MSW from Adelphi University, and a Doctorate in Organizational Leadership from Nova Southeastern University. Dr. Ronik also provides consultation services to many organizations relative to leadership, management, and organizational development.